The Best Part of Your Day Turns 1!

What a year it's been. AHF's Inside Scoop internal communications program is one year old. What started out as better emails, expanded to include a magazine and special-edition podcasts.

And while corporate emails are not your most anticipated notification of the day, we'd like to think that when your Outlook alert sounds and it's from Inside Scoop, your who-wants-me-now frown, turns upside-down.

Where else do you get your weekly dose of gifs, memes, and inappropriate puns? And if you're wondering, it takes a lot of work to come up with hit after hit—the pressure is real. So in the spirit of celebration for this one-year milestone, let's meet the creative editors behind the best part of your workday.

Meet Gabby Cruz, Employee Engagement Extraordinaire + Top 1% of Top Event Hosts

Inside Scoop: What's been your favorite Inside Scoop moment?

Gabby: It's hard to choose just one...My fave Inside Scoop emails are the Fitbit challenge emails. There are so many cool prizes we are able to announce using funny gifs.

Inside Scoop: How do you think the Inside Scoop has influenced staff communication/participation in events?

Gabby: I hope our Inside Scoop emails and newsletters have made an impression on AHF staff. We want to be considered a trustworthy source of information and a place where employees feel like they are on the forefront of all things AHF. Whether it's a new social media campaign or a time card reminder, each email is hand crafted to engage with our staff in the best possible way.

Inside Scoop: What's next for the Inside Scoop?

Gabby: I'm no fortune teller but I can see a whole lot more of Inside Scoop in everyone's future. I'd love to include even more ways to hear from staff about what they want from us.

Meet Osh Doucet, Content Marketing Machine + Email Copywriting Ninja

Inside Scoop: What's been your favorite Inside Scoop moment?

Osh: Literally just writing emails. There are some where I'm like, "wow, that's good." and then I send the copy off to Gabby and she's like, "wow, this is good." The less she has to spruce is how I know I've done my job and should be allowed to go home.

Inside Scoop: How do you think the Inside Scoop has influenced staff communication/participation in events?

Osh: Well I hope emails make people laugh or just want to read them at all. I'm an email nerd, I love getting good emails in my inbox but I think most people don't, or they're just too busy to care. So if folks stop and read at all and have a better understanding of the events and programs at AHF I should also be able to go home because I've done my job.

Inside Scoop: What's next for the Inside Scoop?

Osh: I probably can't say or something. Read the rest of this issue because we drop some hints. By hints I mean we share exactly what we're doing next with the Inside Scoop.

Aww, nhow these hard-working editors (and, really, any of your coworkers) some love with Above & Beyond points! After all, these folks remind you to submit your timecard to keep cash in your pocket, they make sure volunteers and attendees sign up for your events, they set up your Fitbit challenges and prizes, and they send you sign up forms for AHF retreats and summer staff picnics. That deserves applause.

If you're here for this shameless plug and you have 60 seconds of free time, visit the Above & Beyond page on PingOne or AHF Connect today.

AHFter Hours and IS:Headlines Did you catch the latest drop?

Hi, I'm Jimmi! I'm here to catch you up to speed on the latest episodes of AHFter Hours and Headlines. First things first. What are AHFter Hours and Headlines anyway?

They're AHF-hosted podcasts, and if you haven't given them a listen it's about time you do.

AHFter Hours gives you an unfiltered look at all things AHF. You can uncover what makes AHF a unique organization, learn valuable professional development tools, and get the inside scoop on AHF events and need-to-know offerings like free Plan B and monkeypox vaccines at our pharmacies.

On a recent episode of AHFter Hours, we interviewed National Director of Pharmacy Sales, Jose Ramos. Jose discussed how AHF pharmacies are a bridge to our communities and how his work is about more than filling prescriptions. Tune in to hear an inside perspective on what truly keeps people well.

And for when you're busy, the "let me check my calendar and circle back" kind of busy, we've just launched a new Inside Scoop podcast called Headlines. It's a lot like the magazine you're reading now but condensed into quick, on-the-go news stories. On the latest episode of Headlines, AHF advocates for monkeypox vaccines, helps with the California housing crisis, and announces the AIDS Walk Atlanta Music Festival and 5k Run on Sept. 24th. If you haven't had a listen, check it out now! Inside Scoop Headlines informs you on important issues in less than five minutes!

Scan the QR code to listen now!

Get ready for a new addition to the Inside Scoop franchise. Inside Scoop Exclusive is a brand new podcast that provides a deep dive into the most pressing public health, global policy, and advocacy initiatives at the AIDS Healthcare Foundation. Watch or listen for special reporting and hard-hitting interviews.

Stay tuned for our first episode in the coming weeks.

Now Available at AHF Pharmacy

Plan B, Paxlovid, Narcan, Fentanyl Strips, Monkeypox Vaccine, and PrEP.

Something good is brewing at AHF Pharmacy. Actually, a lot of good is in the works. AHF Pharmacies now offer treatments, medications, and vaccines that our community needs access to the most. We're cutting the red tape and doing away with the endless hoops so you have nothing to jump through. AHF Pharmacy is providing EVEN MORE services with no appointment needed to access them, for free!

See what's new at your local AHF Pharmacy.

Plan B - No Questions Asked

With the overturning of Roe vs. Wade, AHF has responded by providing access to free generic Plan B, commonly referred to as the morning-after pill, at any AHF Pharmacy for patients, employees, and the community!

Plan B is an emergency contraceptive that can be taken once by mouth within 72 hours after unprotected sex, a condom mishap during sex, or an issue with birth control. Plan B won't protect against HIV or any other sexually transmitted infections so it is important to be safe and get tested.

If you need more information, talk to your local AHF pharmacist to find out if generic Plan B is right for you. Remember, timing is critical, and Plan B should always be taken within 72 hours after having sex. No prescription is required to receive Plan B at an AHF pharmacy.

Monkeypox Vaccine

Monkeypox is the most recent public health emergency taking the world by storm. In response to the Monkeypox outbreak, AHF has held several press conferences to get information out to the public about the virus, who's at risk of getting it, and how they can prevent it. We know monkeypox is spreading rapidly in the MSM community. In addition, people who have multiple sexual partners or anonymous sexual partners are also at a greater risk of getting infected. AHF has made its network of wellness centers and pharmacies available to administer the monkeypox vaccine to at-risk persons. Call or visit an AHF Pharmacy today to see if you are eligible to receive the vaccine.

Narcan Nasal Spray

Narcan Nasal Spray is a prescription medication used to manage opioid overdose in adults and children. It blocks the effects of other opioids to relieve dangerous symptoms like slowed or stopped breathing caused by an overdose. This medication is available as a nasal spray and is administered into one nostril as an emergency treatment of known or suspected opioid abuse.

Signs and symptoms of an opioid overdose may include the following:

- Extreme sleepiness - inability to awaken a patient verbally or with a firm sternal rub
- Respiratory depression - this can range from slow or shallow breathing to no breathing
- Miosis (constriction of eye pupil) - very small pupils
- Slow heartbeat and/or low blood pressure

Ask about Narcan at an AHF Pharmacy if you or someone you know uses opioid medication or street drugs.

Paxlovid

AHF will also offer Paxlovid, Pfizer's COVID-19 antiviral pill. Studies show Paxlovid reduced the risk of hospitalization or death by 89 percent in high-risk patients who experienced symptoms for three days or less. These results are from a trial of 2,246 adults released by Pfizer.

The drug was granted an emergency use authorization (EUA) by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in December for anyone ages 12 and older who weighs at least 88 pounds and is at high risk for severe disease.

Like all antivirals, Paxlovid works best early in the course of an illness. It should be taken within the first five days of symptom onset. If taken after this 5-day window, the damage done to the body by COVID-19 can't be undone by the antiviral.

All AHF pharmacists will have more information on your eligibility and use of Paxlovid.

Fentanyl Testing Strips

Fentanyl is a synthetic opioid that is about 50 times as potent as heroin that many people consume without knowledge. According to the CDC, overdose deaths involving fentanyl have quadrupled in recent years.

Fentanyl test strips are now available at AHF Pharmacy which can identify the presence of fentanyl in unregulated drugs. Strips can be used to test injectable drugs, powders, and pills.

Being aware if fentanyl is present in anything you may consume or introduce into your bloodstream, allows you to implement appropriate harm reduction strategies to reduce the risk of an overdose.

Check with an AHF Pharmacist for the availability of fentanyl test strips.

PrEP

The AHF Pharmacy offers PrEP to all people at risk of getting HIV through sex or drug use. PrEP is only used to prevent HIV, so condom use is the best option for reducing the spread of other sexually transmitted infections.

To know if PrEP is right for you, speak to an AHF Pharmacy representative. Visit our pharmacy location page and find an AHF Pharmacy near you. From there, call the number listed for your local AHF Pharmacy and ask about PrEP. You can also visit the any AHF Pharmacy, Healthcare Center, or Wellness Center of your choice during hours of operation and speak about PrEP in person.

If you are uninsured or underinsured, PrEP is still available to you through AHF. Call or visit an AHF Pharmacy today to protect yourself with PrEP!

FIRST CLASS Goes Global

In case you missed it, here's a recap of everything that went down during First Class-Global Week.

At the end of August, AHF Engagement Manger Gabby Cruz and Associate Director of Communications Lauren Hogan hosted a series of conversations with AHF's global leaders on international advocacy, policy, marketing, and Global's upcoming initiatives.

The AHF media team would like to thank all who participated. For those who missed it, global week hit record attendance numbers reaching over 300 people on day one alone.

If you weren't able to attend, the Inside Scoop has got you covered on replays...we know a guy.

Scan the AHF QR code to watch a recap on the AHF intranet. To see the entire week's presentations, scan the youtube QR code.

FLUX, Powered by Identity

It's time to get acquainted with FLUX, and AHF affinity group dedicated to creating safe spaces for trans* and gender non-conforming individuals.

FLUX aims to raise the profile of these communities by leveraging social events and innovative advocacy initiatives.

Here's a breakdown of what drives FLUX's advocacy work and marketing practices.

Advocacy: FLUX is responsive to current and emerging issues that directly impact the trans* and gender-nonconforming community. Their events are geared towards raising the profile of the community by celebrating its diversity and vibrancy.

Innovative Marketing: FLUX is committed to creating content that speaks to the social determinants of health that impact the overall well-being of the trans community.

Time to celebrate!

The affinity group's headquarters, The Connie Norman Transgender Empowerment Center—the first facility of its kind nationwide serving trans and non-binary individuals, celebrated one year since its doors opened last September. The facility is named and dedicated in honor of Connie Norman, known as the 'AIDS Diva,' a fearless transgender and AIDS activist who died of the disease in 1996.

The Connie Norman Center not only serves as a home for FLUX, but other trans-led organizations like the Unique Woman's Coalition (UWC). The center functions as a coworking and event space for these organizations to develop skills, network, and be affirmed.

The best way to stay in the know with FLUX and the happenings at the Connie Norman Center is to add FLUX on Instagram. They post about upcoming events and activations, including ways you can join or get involved. Scan the QR code below to visit FLUX's instagram.

AHF 35 YEAR ODYSSEY

WHAT IS AN ODYSSEY?

An Odyssey is defined as a lengthy and eventful journey or experience. There is a philosophy and tradition behind this word. For a nonprofit to actually accomplish this status is unique within itself. Most nonprofits stem from a movement; an idea sparked at the kitchen table or a moment in the garage when a family member becomes an entrepreneur. For the champions at AIDS Healthcare Foundation, it was a passionate plea for AIDS hospice care in the city of angels. Four individuals and a handful of advocates had a shared vision. They set goals, defined their path and ultimately...their unwavering determination paid off.

For 35 years, AIDS Healthcare Foundation has made long term impacts around the world. Their significant contributions have launched much needed medical modifications and opportunities for countless cultures and communities.

To commemorate the legacy AIDS Healthcare has built, they have produced a series of videos that artfully showcase the organization's history, struggles, and achievements. Each video supports their values, future initiatives and the fundamental keys that inspired change in the healthcare industry.

AHF marches for AIDS Awareness

The First Out of the Closet Thrift Store

Empathetic in tone, each video features a sincere self-examination on AHF's position on HIV prevention and care. The continuous growth of Out the Closet stores and the fight against stigma that surrounds the LGBTQ+ people.

These videos go beyond an uncomfortable exploration of death and hateful rhetoric so many AIDS patients had to endure. They are campaigns of hope and uplifting stories of resilience. The videos skillfully represent how AHF grew to become a crucial partner to protecting public health.

Where's The Beef?

Did you know that the term Meatless Monday became a global movement in 2003?

It was launched by Sid Lerner, the founder of the Monday campaigns. Meatless Monday has an uncomplicated objective: to spur wide-spread interest to reduce meat in your diet for your health and the health of the planet. That's right! Eating meat absolutely influences our planet. Raising animals takes energy and resources that causes environmental degradation. And the production practices that meat suppliers create, as well as maintaining animals' health and living spaces are other features that contribute to the carbon dioxide (CO2) emissions.

If you choose to accept the mission of Meatless Mondays, you are doing your mind and body a wonderful favor. When you take a break from eating meat, you will be creating a space to help restore and repair your body's digestive system.

Now, as scrumptious as a juicy Wagyu tenderloin sounds to some, animal protein requires a ton of energy in your body. And if it's not broken down properly, you can feel sluggish and weighed down. Who likes that? Another bonus, when you consume less meat (even once a week) you are lessening your chances of chronic conditions, such as cancer, cardiovascular disease, diabetes, and obesity. Also, ditching meat just may inspire you to add more fiber to your diet and eat more veggies, fruits, grains, beans, and nuts.

Meatless Monday is a small change with the power to make a big difference. This unique movement arrived at a myriad of hospitals and public schools around the country back in 2013. Still going strong today, these institutions are consistent in their goal to promote healthy eating habits with plant-based options.

It may be a colossal challenge for some die-hard carnivores to forsake meat for a day. It can be done. Nothing is impossible; especially when it comes to your well-being. Not only is excluding meat on Mondays good for your health, but also for your wallet. Not sure if you've noticed, but the cost of meat jumped 40% in 2022.

So, if you don't know where to start, don't treat meat like a requirement with every meal. You can try one of the plant-based restaurants below to generate some home-cooked meal plan ideas, or simply cook your favorite dish and replace the meat with a veggie option. You got this! Give it a try because your heart deserves it.
